

CADARETTA, Columbia Valley
2008 Windthrow Syrah

POINTS

If a little slow to start, this wine opens nicely to reveal both lively and ripe fruit aromas reminiscent of fresh raspberries with a hint of strawberry jam for good measure. It is full-bodied and viscous on the palate with a trim of peppery Syrah spice and a decidedly solid, tannic-stiffened finish to keep it from being soft or heavy. Like many southern Rhône, after whose style it seems to follow, this one can be drunk young yet it will repay cellar aging of four to six years for those with patience.
