

Cadaretta is owned by the Middleton family whose portfolio also includes California-based Clayhouse Wines as well as Buried Cane. The winery name is a callout to the family's roots in the timber industry, with Cadaretta the name of the one of the family's schooners in the early 1900's. Brian Rudin serves as winemaker.

Of note, the 2011 SBS White Wine – a Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon blend – is the first to contain fruit, albeit a small fraction, from the winery's Southwind Estate Vineyard in Walla Walla Valley which was planted in 2008.

CADARETTA, Columbia Valley 2011 SBS

“Alluring aromas of tropical fruit, gooseberry, herbal notes, and citrus. The palate is medium bodied, tart and full of citrus flavors. 76% Sauvignon Blanc and 24% Semillon. Frenchman Hills, Tagus One, Desert Hill, Southwind Estate, Rosebud, and Klipsun vineyards. Fermented and aged in stainless steel. 13.1% alcohol. 820 cases produced.”

-SEAN SULLIVAN, AUGUST 28, 2012

MIDDLETON
FAMILY WINES

